PRETTY IN PINK

by Christina Spratt Spencer

2017 is looking at
interior design
through rose
colored glasses.

From the faintest, barely-there whisper of blush to the restrained warmth of the fiery undertones of a metallic rose gold and all of the varying shades in between, interior design and décor just pushed the boundaries of the pinks we thought we once knew. The introduction of these refined color stories are far more bold than bashful.

The juxtaposition of blush in a room's palette serves as a more unconventional "neutral" by providing an aesthetic softness to ground other elements – from monochromatic neutrals to even the boldest of palettes. Rose gold provides a dramatic and unexpected quality of warmth often crisply highlighting sleek and modern silhouettes while refracting its signature warm glow.
